

Find Your Vocal Why

Get Yourself your favorite drink (coffee?), your bible, paper, pen and a space where you can easily focus on hearing God. Sometimes it helps to put on some instrumental worship music.

Invite Him in and trust that He loves to talk to you. He knows you best.

Go over these questions together.

Finding Your Why in Life

✎ What is God saying over my life?
(remember any prophetic words/ scriptures that have been spoken earlier in your life)

---

---

✎ What makes you come alive?

---

---

---

✎ What are your innate strengths
(no clue? Text your friends/ family)

FIND YOUR VOCAL “WHY”

🌀 What genre are you connecting mostly through right now?

---

---

---

🌀 What type of audience do you want to sing covers / originals for?

This can be a age- group, gender or have to do with genre/ demographics etc.

The clearer you are on who that is, the better you can serve them. It's a trap to think you have to be everything to everyone. It's simply not possible to touch everyone with your music. In fact, when you try to write or sing for everyone, you risk creating mediocre music or setlists that don't speak deeply to anyone at all.

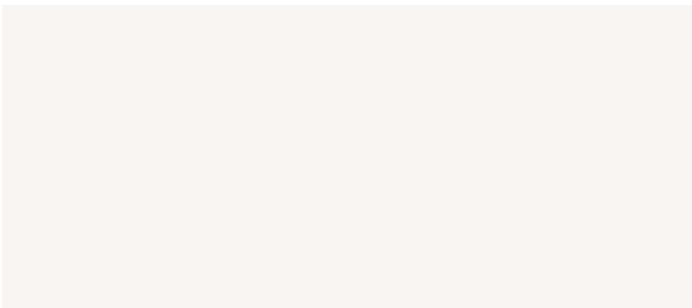

We are never the whole body by ourselves; we are a part of the whole. You get to serve your God-given sphere of influence, and others get to serve theirs. (1 Corinthians 12:12-27)
